ABSTRACT

A method for collecting, processing and displaying data related to network paths is provided. The method includes, in a network, in a network, collecting data about a packet

5 passing from a source system to a destination system, generating a markup language graphical file based on the collected data, and displaying the markup language graphics file.

20344104.doc